

South County Art Association Instructor

Patricia Cheyne has an extensive art career in which includes a variety of media. She has shown her work both nationally and internationally. All of her art shows the influence of growing up in New England where she developed a love of nature that is reflected in her work. Patricia has taught art to all populations from preschool to adults. She is a Professor Emeritus at Pacific University where she taught drawing, design, printmaking, paper making, artist books, mixed media, and art history for 20 years. Patricia is happy to be back in New England and teaching workshops at South County Art Association.

Artist Statement:

In general my art is a mix of landscapes, soulscapes, and mythscapes. My new work strives to enhance the general understanding of how profoundly the material world affects “immaterial” realities of creation and vice versa in a variety of media. My work combines my interest in mixed media using natural dyes, handmade paper, and solar plate printmaking with and hand stitching.
